

Professor David F. Forte Receives CSU's Distinguished Faculty Award for Research

CSU Cleveland-Marshall College of Law Professor David F. Forte was selected as the 2020 recipient of Cleveland State University's Distinguished Faculty Award for Research.

CSU's annual Distinguished Faculty Awards are presented each Fall semester to honor the contributions of dedicated employees and illustrate the commitment to students, enthusiasm for education and tremendous skill exhibited by all members of CSU's campus community.

"When he first ran for office, Abraham Lincoln declared that his great ambition was to be 'truly esteemed of my fellow-men by rendering myself worthy of their esteem'," said Professor Forte. "I find myself deeply gratified by the regard of my faculty colleagues for my research and scholarship."

Forte was selected for this annual award based on the breadth, quality, and impact of his research. In his time as CSU, Professor Forte has written or edited six books, produced 29 major scholarly articles, 16 book reviews and review articles, upwards of 75 published lectures, essays, and encyclopedia entries, and seven briefs. He has the extraordinary number of 143 works on CSU's EngagedScholarship database. Since 2017, over 8,800 copies of his publications have been downloaded by 915 institutions in 146 countries from CSU's EngagedScholarship database.
